UNIT - 3

1. What do you understand by trust in relationships? Explain with an example.

1. Trust means believing that another person is honest and reliable.
2. It creates a feeling of safety and confidence.
3. It helps people share their thoughts and feelings openly.
4. It strengthens friendship and family bonds.
5. Trust develops through truthful actions and consistency.
6. Example : A friend keeps a secret shared by you, which increases trust between both of you.

2. What problems may arise when trust is broken in relationships?

1. Misunderstandings and conflicts may occur.
2. People may feel hurt and disappointed.
3. Communication becomes weak.
4. Cooperation and support decrease.
5. Relationships may become stressful or end completely.
6. It becomes difficult to rebuild confidence once trust is lost.

3. What does respect mean in human relationships?

1. Respect means valuing others and their feelings.
2. It involves treating people with kindness and dignity.
3. Respect helps maintain healthy relationships.
4. It encourages understanding and cooperation.
5. Respect includes listening to others' opinions.
6. It creates a positive and peaceful environment.

4. Describe a situation where lack of respect created conflict.

1. In a classroom, one student continuously interrupted another.
2. The interrupted student felt insulted and ignored.
3. Arguments started between the students.
4. The classroom atmosphere became unpleasant.
5. Learning was affected because of the conflict.
6. Mutual respect and proper communication could have prevented the problem.

5. Describe how care and guidance play an important role in family relationships.

1. Care provides emotional support and security.
2. Guidance helps family members make good decisions.
3. Parents teach values and discipline through guidance.
4. Care strengthens love and affection among members.
5. Guidance helps children develop confidence and responsibility.
6. Together, care and guidance maintain harmony in the family.

6. How do family values influence harmony in society?

1. Family is the first place where values are learned.
2. Values like honesty and respect shape good citizens.
3. Responsible family members contribute positively to society.
4. Family values reduce conflicts and misunderstandings.
5. They encourage cooperation and mutual support.
6. Strong family values help create a peaceful and harmonious society.

7. What role do young people or students play in maintaining harmony in society?

1. Students can promote unity and cooperation.
2. They should respect people from different backgrounds.
3. Young people can spread awareness about social issues.
4. They can participate in community service activities.
5. They should practice honesty and responsibility.
6. Their positive actions help build a peaceful society.

8. How can human values contribute to peace and harmony across the world?

1. Human values encourage respect for all people.
2. They promote understanding and tolerance.
3. Values reduce hatred, violence and discrimination.
4. They strengthen cooperation among nations.
5. Human values support justice and equality.
6. As a result, peace and harmony can be achieved worldwide.

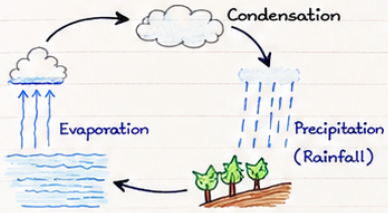

Key Takeaway : Trust, Respect, Care, Guidance and Values are the foundation of healthy relationships and a harmonious society. -♡

UNIT – 4

(Harmony in Nature and Co-existence)

9. What do you understand by self-regulation in nature? Explain with an example.

1. Self-regulation means nature maintains balance on its own.
2. Different natural systems work together in harmony.
3. It helps sustain life on Earth.
4. Natural processes continuously renew resources.
5. Disturbances are corrected through natural cycles.
6. Example : The water cycle regulates water through evaporation, condensation and rainfall.

10. How do plants and animals help each other in nature? Describe one real-life example showing mutual fulfilment.

1. Plants provide food and oxygen to animals.
2. Animals release carbon dioxide needed by plants.
3. Many animals help in pollination and seed dispersal.
4. Both depend on each other for survival.
5. This relationship maintains ecological balance.
6. Example : Bees collect nectar from flowers and help in pollination, benefiting both bees (food) and plants (reproduction).

11. How can we observe co-existence in our daily life? Write two examples.

1. Co-existence means living together in harmony.
2. Humans, animals and plants depend on one another.
3. It promotes mutual respect and cooperation.
4. Nature provides many examples of co-existence.
5. Example 1 : Trees provide oxygen while humans provide care and protection.
6. Example 2 : Birds build nests on trees without harming them.

12. Describe a situation where lack of harmony created problems in society or environment.

1. Excessive cutting of trees causes environmental imbalance.
2. It leads to soil erosion and loss of biodiversity.
3. Rainfall patterns may get disturbed.
4. Air quality decreases due to fewer trees.
5. People may face floods, droughts and climate problems.
6. This shows how lack of harmony with nature creates serious issues.

13. What do you understand by natural acceptance? Explain with an example from your personal life.

1. Natural acceptance means understanding what is naturally right and good
2. It comes from within, without external pressure.
3. It helps us make correct decisions.
4. It promotes honesty, respect and responsibility.
5. It guides our behaviour in daily life.
6. Example : Returning a lost wallet to its owner because it feels right and honest.

Key Takeaway

- Nature is self-regulating and maintains balance.
- Plants and animals fulfil each other's needs.
- Co-existence helps all forms of life to live together.
- Lack of harmony creates problems in environment and society.
- Natural acceptance helps us choose what is right and good in life.

UNIT – 5

(Human Values in Society and Profession)

(14) Explain how values guide human behaviour and decision-making in daily life.

1. Values act as inner guidelines for our thoughts, words and actions.
2. They help us distinguish between right and wrong.
3. Values influence our choices and decisions.
4. They promote honesty, responsibility and respect.
5. Values build good relationships and trust.
6. They lead to a meaningful, happy and peaceful life.

Values → Good Behaviour
→ Better Decisions

(15) Give an example where lack of ethical conduct caused harm to society or environment.

1. Some factories dump chemical waste into rivers illegally.
2. This pollutes the water and kills aquatic life.
3. People using that water suffer from health problems.
4. The environment becomes unsafe and unfit for living.
5. It also creates loss for farmers and fishermen.
6. This shows how lack of ethical conduct harms both society and environment.

(16) How can education help students develop values, responsibility, and social awareness?

1. Education teaches moral and human values.
2. It develops discipline and sense of responsibility.
3. It encourages respect for others and nature.
4. It creates awareness about social issues and duties.
5. It promotes teamwork, compassion and service.
6. Thus, education helps students become responsible and aware citizens.

(17) What do you understand by professional ethics?

1. Professional ethics are moral principles followed in a profession.
2. They guide professionals to be honest and fair.
3. They ensure quality work and trust.
4. They prevent corruption, exploitation and misuse of power.
5. They respect the rights and dignity of others.
6. Following professional ethics benefits both the individual and society.

(18) Describe an example where modern technology caused environmental problems.

1. Excessive use of plastics is a result of modern technology and lifestyle.
2. Plastic wastes like bags, bottles and packaging materials pollute land and water.
3. They harm animals when eaten or when stuck in them.
4. Burning plastic releases toxic gases that pollute the air.
5. It causes soil infertility and water contamination.
6. Hence, technology should be used responsibly to reduce such problems.

(19) What steps can individuals take to practice human values in daily life?

1. Be honest and truthful in all actions.
2. Respect everyone, irrespective of their background.
3. Help others and be kind.
4. Save resources like water, electricity and paper.
5. Avoid waste and keep surroundings clean.
6. Be responsible in our duties and promises.

Small good actions everyday create a better society.

(20) Describe a situation where values influenced an important decision in your life.

1. During an exam, I saw a friend trying to copy answers.
2. My value of honesty guided me to take the right decision.
3. I did not allow him to copy and concentrated on my own paper.
4. I informed the teacher after the exam.
5. It was difficult, but I chose what was right.
6. This decision gave me self-respect and helped my friend realize his mistake.

Key Takeaway : Values shape our character, guide our decisions and help create a just, responsible and harmonious society. Practicing them in daily life leads to personal growth and the welfare of all.